PRICE TWO CENTS

U of M To Be Hosts To 70 ISS Delegates

Kennedy and Gill Delegates From McGill

The fourth annual conference of the International Student Service will open officially in Montreal Friday, Nov. 11, at 2:30 p.m. The University of Montreal will act as host to the 70 delegates, representing all the universities across Canada. Clyde Kennedy and Bob Gill will be the two McGill delegates to the three-day conference.

The delegates are expected to arrive Friday morning, when Magr. Olivier Maurault, director of the University of Montreal, will welcome them. There will be a banquet Friday afternoon at 2:30, and at 5:15 the official reception will take place in the salon de Monseigneur. A plenary session at 8 o'clock will conclude the activities of the first day.

The committee session will be in operation Saturday at 9:30 a.m. The first of four committees will discuss local I.S.S. organization and program. The second will concern itself with the continuation of past projects and activities such as world student relief, displaced persons' scholarships, and the international seminars. The third committee will consider new fields of I.S.S. activity, such as exchange scholarships, international houses, and displaced students already in Canada. The fourth will discuss I.S.S. internationally, the principles of I.S.S., present relations of I.S.S. and world relief. They will also discuss Canada and I.S.S. internationally, and Canadian recommendations to International Assembly.

The McGill delegation will air the possibility of assisting students affected by devaluation. It is hoped that some assistance can be given them by the Canadian Committee of I.S.S.

Saturday evening a banquet will be held, and there will be a performance by les Compagnons de Saint-Laurent at their theatre, which will be followed by a reception at the McGill Union given by the McGill Committee.

Sunday morning there will be another plenary session to consider the reports of the commission. The conference is expected to close late Sunday afternoon.

Fisher Finds Canadians Confused

Toronto—(CUP)—John Fisher, C.B.C. commentator, blasted out against Canadians, labelling them as "prejudiced, snobbish and narrow-minded," in a recent address before the Mechanical Club of the University of Toronto.

Fisher, who has travelled widely throughout Canada and has shown a tremendous interest in the country's problems, told club members at Hart House that "Canadians are mixed up in their thinking."

"They have no sense of humor, never let themselves go. They are prejudiced, snobbish, narrow-minded and have not the force nor the energy to represent something to the rest of the world beside the products they export," he said.

Canada, he said, is denying her potential greatness by "maudlin, mawkish sentimentality about Britain and the Commonwealth that makes Canadians afraid to express themselves nationally."

"The prejudices regarding foreigners; the lack of understanding of French Canada, all of which is as much Canadian as the English speaking population; the lack of support for native Canadians; all these contribute to a need for more understanding and a unity of national expression," Mr. Fisher said.

"There is no room for prejudice in a united parliament of man. Every time we show a loophole we are losing a lot in democracy."

Fisher said he has a great belief in Canada's future. He feels that it is great to be a Canadian in a country where one never knows what new development is going to spring up tomorrow. He particularly emphasized the potential greatness of the country and exclaimed that the challenge for engineers, that the challenge for a country that "hasn't even started yet" for the engineering profession

McGill Players' Club Needs Student Actors

The Workshop of the Player's Club gets underway this Thursday night at 7:30 in the Union. The club extends its invitation to students who want to act and participate in other phases of the theatre.

As in the past, the Workshop offers everyone who wants to act, direct, or design an opportunity to do so. The emphasis is on urge, not experience. Whoever attends will act—if he wants to act.

Scripts of scenes from O'Neill, Shaw, and Thurber are already prepared and directors appointed.

Principal to Address Phi Epsilon Alpha

Principal F. Cyril James will be guest speaker at the first dinner meeting of Phi Epsilon Alpha, McGill Engineering honor society, which will be held on Nov. 28. President Ken Hague announced yesterday.

At a recent meeting of the society in the Union Cafeteria plans were discussed for a series of dinner meetings to be held in the Union about once every three weeks throughout the year.

Recommendations for new members were also discussed. Members are accepted into the society on the basis of high scholastic standing or exceptional extra-curricular activity, a society spokesman said.

New Learning Helps Arouse Jap Reaction

Ottawa—(Special)—During the Second World War, the Japanese broke the power of the white race in Asia and whether or not the native population helped the Japanese, the feeling of nationalism had increased, Ronald Grant-ham, editorial writer of The Ottawa Citizen told Carleton College students in an address entitled "Ferment in South-east Asia." His address was one of a series of lectures on "History in the Making," sponsored by the Ottawa branch of the United Nations Association.

Once having felt independence, Asiatics were not prone to give it up again, Grant-ham declared. Speaking on the current situation in the Dutch Pacific colonies, he outlined the reasons behind the revolution in the Dutch East Indies. He said that with the spread of the white civilization in the Pacific, the introduction of books, the radio and other new ideas, the native population wanted a stronger voice in the operation of its own country.

Stating that most of the Far East was politically Socialist, Mr. Grant-ham pointed out the various reasons for this policy. Among these was the general reaction of the native population to Western Capitalism and influence of Russia on the minds of the people. The Eastern civilization, he said, was one of old societies, communal life, group ideas and group rights. For this reason it leaned to a Socialist political policy.

Show Must Go On!

Audience 3, Debators 2 Debators 4, Audience 1

A new technique in conducting debates was developed yesterday by Gerald N. F. Charness, inter-collegiate debator, when he was called upon to judge a first year debating session in the Ballroom.

Charness said he was fortunate enough to have an audience of three students because otherwise no debate would have been possible when only the negative team of Doris Albert and John Haly showed up.

After Nick Vlahos and Lionel Lustgarten volunteered to uphold the affirmative of the resolution—Should Latin be Eliminated as a Requirement for a B.A.—Charness was left with an audience of one. A time-keeper was also lacking but this obligation was foisted upon the rest of the audience. So with the debate now possible Char-

Specialization In Medicine Forum Topic

The increasing tendency toward "specialization in the medical field and its relationship to public interest" will be discussed at the first radio forum of the year. The program is to be aired on Thursday over Station CFCF at 10:30 p.m.

This weekly series will be in the nature of professor-student forums, and the general theme of the entire group of programmes is to be patterned around "The University, its students, and the community."

Dr. Moseley and Dr. Vivian will represent the faculty, whereas Jon Ballon and Isadore Rosenfeld will present the student view in this week's forum.

Dr. Moseley, an Associate Professor of Surgery, and Assistant Surgeon at the Royal Victoria Hospital, and Dr. Vivian, chairman of the Department of Health and Social Medicine, will outline their views.

A question period will follow the debate.

McGill Pupils Prepare For Federal Brief

A contribution from McGill to the Federal brief for the Royal Commission on Arts, Sciences, and Letters, is in the course of preparation by a committee of the local division of the National Federation of Canadian University Students. The paper is being prepared by Norman Buchanan and George McClintock, two new chairmen of the N.F.C.U.S. committee.

In order to facilitate this work, copies of a questionnaire have been placed in various buildings on the campus, and students are asked to fill them in and hand them in to the Union Tuck Shop before 6:00 p.m. today. This survey is an important part of the work of preparing the brief.

Leonard Harbour and George Stephen, new co-chairmen of the local N.F.C.U.S. group, have announced plans for a McGill Conference to be held later this year.

Great Expectations at Film Society Opening

The Film Society starts this year with its first performance on Tuesday, 8th November, at 8 p.m. in Room 250 of the Biological Bldg. The main feature of the night's program will be the film version of the Charles Dickens novel, Great Expectations, preceded by a short from "This Modern Age" series, Home from the South. All Society performances will be held on Tuesday evenings, and containing a main film selected because of its outstanding merit. Full details of this showing will be given in the Daily tomorrow.

Grads Invite Class of '50 To Celebration

The class of '50 has been invited to attend the Diamond Jubilee of the McGill Graduates' Society on Wednesday, November 23, at 8:30 p.m. in Convocation Hall of Royal Victoria College, Mrs. John Pratt, convener, announced yesterday.

Chief attraction of the evening will be a "Fashion Parade," depicting the style of college outfits from 1889-1949. The accent will be on the events and fashions of special interest to McGill University during the sixty-year period. Miss Barbara Whitley, a graduate of Arts '40, will comment on each of the thirty or more costumes modeled by graduates of the last two years.

The event is being sponsored by the McGill Alumnae, women's division of the society.

"All costumes will be borrowed from graduates of their friends, and will be authentic," stated Miss MacNabb, secretary of the McGill Alumnae.

Price Discounting Believed Root Of Inflationary Effect

Toronto—(CUP)—The belief of SAC in condemning his company's policy to be rather hasty. He had studied the SAC brief on book prices and it had dealt mainly with problems of the used book trade. No proper study of the new book business had been made.

When asked whether Macmillan's allow any of their books to be sold at a discount the official said their only two chief exceptions to the rule. Toronto vocational high schools had been allowed a discount for 25 years. This had apparently been allowed because there had been difficulty in acquiring special technical books in private stores. It was also the custom to sell at a discount to teachers.

To illustrate how impartially the policy of a "list price" is applied, Gray told of another university book store that had attempted to raise prices. This had been disallowed.

He said the Macmillan Company of England adopted in Britain the policy of a list price—when book retailers were rapidly going out of business, 75 years ago. Price discounts were so completely eliminating profits that book store owners were being forced to adopt side-lines, such as greeting cards, to remain solvent, he said. Yet book prices were being inflated, Gray stated. The trade had revived after Macmillan's and other publishers adopted the policy "net prices," which could not be changed without permission by the retailers.

He said he considers the action

1st Gen Nite To Hear Dean Tomorrow

Dean H. N. Fieldhouse and Professor F. M. Watkins, of the Political Science Department are to be among the speakers at the first Gen Nite of the year on Wednesday, at 8:15 p.m. in the Union it was announced yesterday.

The members of the faculty will discuss the problems of the undergraduate while at university and after graduation. The discussion will also cover some of the opportunities the student may expect to discover when he completes his studies.

The Curriculum Committee will have a representative at the meeting to hear any suggestions from the students, announced Keith Drummond, the chairman of the Committee.

This Committee was set up three years ago to provide a channel to convey student suggestions to the faculty. The committee states that it is now expanding its coverage to faculties other than that of Arts and Science and has been assisted by the co-operation and interest of the faculty.

An informal discussion will follow the meeting and refreshments will be served.

PSYCHOLOGY CLUB

"Psychosomatic Medicine—a modern approach to medical problems," will be the subject of a talk to be given by Doctor Ben Raginsky, who will speak to the Psychology Club and Pre-Medical Society to-night at 8 p.m. in Room 102 of the Physics Building. Membership cards will be mailed to all paid up members of the Club within the next few days.

U. of Glasgow Historian to Lecture Here

Dr. J. D. Mackie, professor of Scottish history and literature at the University of Glasgow, yesterday started a two-week stay here as visiting professor of history. He will deliver a number of public lectures and take part in the regular work in the department of history, it was learned.

Professor Mackie is in the forefront of contemporary Scottish historians and is a member of the Scottish Research Advisory Council, director of the Scottish National Register of Archives and chairman of the Council of Scottish Historical Societies, an announcement from the principal's office stated.

During the First World War Prof. Mackie served with the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders.

From the time of its founding by James McGill, an alumnus of the University of Glasgow, McGill has always been linked by ties of close affection to the Scottish university. In view of the contribution which Scotsmen and Scottish enterprise have made to the culture and commerce of Montreal, it is expected that Prof. Mackie's visit will be of interest not only to the university, but also to the city at large.

McGill already possesses a valuable collection of materials for Scottish studies and the department of history, through Dr. Stanford Reid, already directs both undergraduate and graduate work in Scottish history.

Josh Booth Recalls Beaverbrook Election

The visit of Lord Beaverbrook to Montreal over the week-end recalled to Josh Booth, manager of the Union billiard room, the day Beaverbrook was elected to the House of Commons in 1910 or 1911—Josh is not quite sure of the year now.

Josh's borough of Ashlon-Under-Lyne put Beaverbrook into the Commons. He beat his opponent by 600 votes in spite of Liberal attempts to label him a "soap box orator."

Josh shook hands with Beaverbrook while he was electioneering. And he recalls how Beaverbrook swooned when he learned he had been elected. He was standing at the top of the town hall steps at the time and had to be carried to his hotel—the George and Dragon—across the street.

Hillel Treasurer to Be Elected This Week

Election for the position of treasurer on the Hillel executive will be held at Hillel House tomorrow and Thursday, Nov. 10. It was announced yesterday.

Voting will be by the preferential ballot system. Ballots will be available in the second floor office between the hours of 9:30 and 5:30, the announcement said.

Four candidates have been nominated for the position. They are David Gertler, Leonard Klein, Harry Bierbrier, and Tony Shine. Campaigning is now proceeding by means of posters and pen sketches which will be published in the Hillel McGillian.

Ceremony, Tradition, Bah! A Degree is Still a Degree

London—(CUP)—In a "surprise party" style ceremony, the University of Western Ontario last week honoured the chairman of its Board of Governors at a convocation which was secret even from him.

Shrouded in secrecy and lacking traditional pomp and fanfare, plans for the ceremony were known to only 30 persons.

Arthur Thomas Little, for 30 years chairman of the Board of Governors, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws in his own home on the anniversary of his joining the board.

He had refused to accept the degree, approved two years ago by the university Senate, so officials decided to take matters into their own hands to confer the award.

Meeting at a service station, the group of 30 boarded a chartered bus for Mr. Little's home. They donned gowns on the bus, and proceeded in ceremonial style through the cold rain of Halloween night into the home. The procession was accom-

First Workshop Play To Be "Dr. Faustus"

The McGill Radio Workshop is holding a casting at station CKAC, 980 St. Catherine St. W., from 12 noon to 2 p.m. on Wednesday, November 8. The script is a half-hour radio adaptation of Marlowe's "Dr. Faustus" by Len Ashley.

Casting will be done by Don Holderman, and Christopher Ellis, noted CBM director will direct the final broadcast over station CJAD.

The play is one of a series of six plays produced by different Montreal dramatic groups to be heard over CJAD shortly.

"Dr. Faustus" is a 16th century English play about a man who sells his soul to the devil in payment for the use, over a period of twenty-four years, of certain powers of the underworld.

$25,000 Set As Objective In Campaign

A fashion show will be the feature event on the Thursday of Campaigning Week as Terry Dion and Linda Palmer present before the campus a parade of campus beauties, the campaign announcement said.

Culminating Campaign Week will be the Grand Charity Ball which will be held in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium-Armory on Friday, Nov. 18, starting at 9 p.m. Tickets for all the above events will only be sold at the door, it was said.

The results of the campaign for just a little more than three dollars per student will be distributed among the Welfare Federation, the Catholic Charities, French Charities, Jewish Welfare and the International Students Service, it was learned.

A campaign spokesman said that because of the short duration of the campaign a new venture is being tried this year in that campus clubs as a group, rather than as individuals, will be asked to make contributions in their particular club's name.

Students will be asked to meet an objective of $25,000 next week when the annual Combined Charities Campaign begins on the campus, it was announced last night by Barbara Watson, chairman.

Many campus-wide events are being planned to stimulate interest in the campaign, the chairman said. Among these will be the swimming meet, a fashion show and a dance.

The drive for funds will begin on Monday, Nov. 14, as booths will be set-up at convenient spots around the campus to receive contributions from students. Headquarters of the campaign has been established in the Union where Peggy Pierce will direct the operation of the booths.

The swimming meet will be held Wednesday, Nov. 16, in the Knights of Columbus Pool on Mountain street. Joan Mount will be in charge of the direction of the meet.

Ten canvassers will have the mammoth task of soliciting all the students on the campus, a spokesman said.

Clinic Head Appreciates Student Help

ELIZABETH ANN SUMNER
One hundred and sixty-four students have responded to the call of the Canadian Red Cross Society for assistance in building up the stocks of the Blood Bank which supplies 32 hospitals in the Montreal district, it was disclosed last night by Mrs. R. B. Shaw, officer in charge of the McGill clinic.

The outcome of the drive was fair, Mrs. Shaw said, "but we hope that the number of donors will increase."

"The need for blood donors is very great, and knowing my Alma Mater as I do, I know that it is not like McGill students to let a worthy cause go begging," she said. Arrangements have been made so that all students wanting to give blood during the day will be attended with dispatch to permit them to attend their next lecture, Mrs. Shaw said.

Vote of Thanks

"We would like to give a vote of thanks to the students who helped to organize this clinic, namely Norma Cooper, Barbara Watson, and John Draper," Mrs. Shaw said. "Also, we would like to thank the 'strong men' whom we kidnapped from playing billiards, to help us move all our equipment up to the Ballroom. These men were most helpful, and many of them returned to be among our first blood donors," she added.

The honor of being the first three blood donors went to Walter Tilden, B. Comm. 4; Richard Roper, B.Sc. 4; and Gordon Sylvestre, B.Sc. 4.

The Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic supplies 32 hospitals in the Montreal area weekly with their supplies of blood. This week's supply is to come entirely from the McGill clinic.

"It is for this reason," Mrs. Shaw said "that the clinic here must be a success. Over 50% of the students at Sir George Williams College, Macdonald College and Bishop's College gave blood when the clinic visited them. It is hoped that McGill will be able to do the same."

This is not the only clinic which will visit McGill.

"We hope to have 1400 students donate blood this week, and in a few weeks we will return again with another clinic. If you have not time to donate this week you may leave your name at one of the registration booths, and we will contact you later to make an appointment," she said.

It is not necessary to have an appointment to donate blood, it was learned. All prospective donors are asked to go to the Ballroom between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. or 2:45 and 5 p.m. The whole process takes between half and three-quarters of an hour. Following this, all donors are given free coffee and donuts.

"The only painful thing about this is when they prick your finger to take a blood test," one husky student was heard to remark after giving a pint of blood.

"Hal" said his female companion, who had also donated. "That's just because you're so squeamish. There's nothing to it."

Decorations

The only thing which Mrs. Shaw finds disconcerting at the clinic are the decorations on the walls of the Ballroom. They are left over from the Dentistry dance which took place last week.

"The large drops of blood which can be seen dripping from an extracted molar seem to me to be a dreadful waste. They could be put to such a good usage," she said.

Representatives from nearly every faculty have been up to donate blood. The Ballroom was "reserved at noon today for the Engineers to donate blood, but not many appeared," Mrs. Shaw said. "Time will tell, however, and we shall find out who really are anemic, the Artists or the Engineers."

Dawson students will be able to give blood at a clinic which will be held there on Oct. 25.

"I would like to make a final plea," said Mrs. Shaw. "For students to donate blood. It is a painless process taking less than an hour, and the student is helping a great humanitarian cause at little trouble to himself."

WE'RE SLIPPING

To reach the Red Cross objective of 1400 donors for the first blood clinic this year at McGill, 350 students must make donations each day. Yesterday a disappointing total of 164 students visited the ballroom to contribute to this important service.

The largest obstacle which must be overcome in getting students to contribute, of course, is that of fear. Practically every donor has a strange feeling of fright at the thought of allowing some of his blood to be drained away. But once the donation has been made he wonders what give him the jitters.

Every precaution is taken to ensure that there is no danger involved in the process, which requires less than an hour all told. Each student who makes a donation will later be mailed a card indicating his blood grouping. This is particularly valuable for if he ever needs a blood transfusion no valuable time need be lost in determining this information. Without such data a doctor requires as long as two hours to find the vital grouping — long enough to mean the difference between life and death.

Naturally the thought "it cannot happen to me" occurs to everyone. But it needs to happen only once. The newspapers recently reported the case of an injured man who needed a special blood grouping for a transfusion. When a nurse obtained a bottle of the precious fluid she noted that it had originally been contributed by the injured man a short time before!

Although the Red Cross didn't start recording donors by their faculty until noon yesterday, the record showed the artsmen ahead of all other campus types — including the engineers who vowed they'd outdo all other faculties.

Many students probably are putting off their donation just as they put off studying, which they likewise realize is important. To make the drive successful, therefore, the executives of the various campus groups will have to stage a little drive of their own — arranging special times for their groups to contribute. McGill can and must do better.

The Red Wing Society McGill Hostesses

The Red Wing Society, which is the co-ed equivalent of the Scarlet Key, has been doing a praiseworthy job on the campus very unobtrusively ever since they were founded in 1938.

The Society, which is an outgrowth of the old Entertainment Committee of R.V.C., was organized "to provide for the welfare and entertainment of visitors, and to help in the organization of any college activity." Now, 11 years after its birth, members of the Society in their red blazers and white skirts have become familiar to the student body as they usher at various events such as Convocation, and football games.

The society consists of 22 members, who are elected to hold office for two years. It is an honorary society, and the members are elected on the principle that membership should be a reward for work well done in previous years.

The Red Wing Society has ushered at McGill functions and welcomed visitors to the Royal Victoria College since its formation in 1938. Each Red Wing, on accomplishing her 30th mission, is awarded a white McGill blazer with red piping, emblematic of her unselfish service to her university.

Another important function of the Red Wings is introducing Fresh to one another at the Freshie Dances and generally seeing that everybody has a good time.

The society consists of 22 members, 11 of whom are elected in November of each year to hold office for two years, with the exception of honorary members. Three representatives are elected in third year R.V.C., one resident and two non-residents; three from second year R.V.C. and three from first year R.V.C. The McGill School of Physical Education is represented by one member from first year.

The president of the Women's Union and the president of the M.W.S.A.A. are honorary members. All members must possess good scholastic standing, and no students carrying conditions are eligible. They also must have paid their University fees. Within these limits any girl on the campus in the proper year is eligible for election to the Red Wings, and this has become one of the most zealously sought honors among McGill co-eds. R.M.R.

String Quartet

The Loewenguth String Quartet, of great renown in its native Paris and the other capitals of the world, recently gave a series of six concerts at the Theatre des Compagnons, during which they played the Beethoven String Quartets.

The seventeen string quartets of Beethoven, embracing the early, middle and late stages of his work, enables them to show the development of the genius of this great composer and yet their very diversity is reconciled into one whole.

The problem consequently arises of how to tackle the presentation. Being a complete experience the quartets need to be treated as such. Of course it is impossible for a quartet to play, and for an audience to appreciate all seventeen in one day.

The Loewenguth String Quartet chose a suitable compromise by presenting each evening a microcosm of the scope of the works. In this way the transition from the Mozart charm of the earlier quartets to the abstract and startling originality of the later ones was realized in some measure by a blending of the various characteristics of each of the quartets. A compromise certainly, but it was a successful one. The renderings of the Loewenguth quartet, one of the finest France has, were responsible for this.

The playing was by no means perfect, nor of a uniform excellence, but the standard was high, and at times neared the apogee of sensitive, appreciative interpretation. It was an attempt to present to ordinary beings the work of an extraordinary consciousness. When music and players and audience were on some evenings, the result was a creative, co-operative effort to convey one of the greatest experiences in music. The "Grosse Fuge", Opus 133 and the A Minor, Opus 132 will stand out in the memories of the audiences as two of the most intense parts of this experience.

As Others See It

WHERE SHOULD PLAY-OFF BE?

Talk of the town today is the possibility of a play-off in the Senior Intercollegiate football circuit this year. Many observers go farther and say the possibility is nearer a probability.

The question on several tongues is: "Where will that play-off be held?"

In their hands, officials of the Senior Intercollegiate loop, hold the cards. Just how the game is played is up to them.

It is now certain that Western's Mustangs have clinched a play-off berth if a 1949 senior football play-off is forced. Despite the outcome of the games on the next two Saturdays, the worst the Metrasmen can get is a tie for second place. They have beaten all teams in the league this year, which entitles them to challenge should they drop to second place.

In 1938, Western played off with McGill Redmen for the title. The game was played in Montreal. In 1943, again the Mustangs acceded to a play-off in Toronto with Varsity. And now, Western may have to play off again.

A fair shuffle of the official cards should mean a play-off at Little Memorial Stadium.

Intercollegiate sport, athletic directors tell us, is a form of healthy, clean competition to build better Canadian citizens. The code of the Senior Intercollegiate Union is that of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada. Professionalism, coaches have stated, has no place in our college athletics.

Little Stadium's seating capacity — 12,000 for the Varsity-Western tilt — should not then be an issue in deciding a play-off ground. If the game is played for the purpose claimed, we feel sure a play-off, if need be, will be staged in London this year. Coffers of coin will not sway the high ideals of the sporting officials.

The Gazette hopes that when the time comes to lay the Intercollegiate cards on the table, Western will have been given a fair deal.

—The Western Gazette

Sport's Editor's Notes The Western Gazette gives several good reasons for holding a possible intercollegiate football play-off. However, we think that there are better reasons for holding the game in Montreal.

For the play-off to be held McGill must defeat Western next week. This would put the Redmen at the top in the final conference standings, with Western in second place. It seems only reasonable to us that the team that finishes first should be given its choice of field for the extra game. McGill would naturally decide to hold the game in Montreal.

In support of its case The Gazette points out that last year's play-off game between Western and Toronto was played in Toronto. As far as we can see this has no bearing on the case. Their other point was that the last time Western and McGill played off, in 1938, the game was held in Montreal. This is correct. But McGill finished first that year. The Gazette believes that therefore there should be an alternation with this year's game being played in London. We disagree. Alternation should play no part. The play-off should be held on the home field of the team finishing first in the regular schedule.

No decision on this has been rendered by the CIAU as yet. The Daily wired CIAU headquarters in Toronto Sunday night but at press time last night had received no reply.

Of course all this discussion may come to nothing. If Western defeats McGill on Saturday there will be no play-off between the two teams.

Letters to the Editor

DEFENDING ANTHONY FRISCH

Editor, The Daily:
It is discouraging, Sir, to find evidence of prejudice and lack of objectivity in the organ of the undergraduate body of an institution of learning. Overhoff's letter in your issue of Friday is such evidence. I should like to show you how ill-founded and ridiculous are his comments.

1. On "Genesis," his statement is purely subjective and rhetorical in nature. He calls it (a) "slanderous" (libelous?)—as if whether Man created God or God created Man was not a matter of personal opinion or of dogma; (b) "sacrilegious"—an entirely subjective judgment; (c) "offensive"—may we ask to whom? Is not "Rape of Lucretia" offensive to some?

2. Overhoff claims that a study of philosophy would have shown Frisch the "utter fallaciousness of his arguments"—Bertrand Russell, no mean philosopher himself, has associated himself with similar arguments for something like fifty years.

3. As to the claims that poetry needs rhyme or meter, see Carl Sandburg.

4. I am qualified to comment neither on the alleged borrowing from Heine and Rilke, nor on the combination of chocolate and garlic.

5. Frisch does not deny having borrowed from T. S. Eliot. The name of his first poem admits it. The interesting fact is that Frisch has been able to use the Eliot technique so efficiently.

6. May I ask in what way

Frisch's sonnets "smell" of Rossetti and his "Arrivals" reeks of Wilde's "Reading Goal." If it is only the mood, I can find no inconvenience.

7. That Frisch is sometimes strained and unnatural in construction is undeniable. So is Wordsworth; what then?

8. Overhoff's last paragraph is a piece of personal rancour which does not contribute anything to the evaluation of Frisch's poetry. It is, to use his own word, "offensive."

I hope, Sir, that this will in future encourage more calm and objective judgment from your correspondents on this, or indeed any other subject.

In the Sportlight

By Jim Robb

The backbone of a strong intramural program is interfaculty competition. During the past few years this competition has been lacking around the McGill Campus. This may be due to the fact that the faculties of Science and Engineering are split up between Dawson and McGill, or the lack of college spirit here since the war, or little support shown for teams entered in the various interfaculty leagues, even the onetime annual Arts and Science versus Engineering snowball battle has faded into history.

Before a fair amount of support can be expected, an interest in Faculty competition must be redeveloped. A plan, with this objective recently put forward by the department of Intramural Athletics, calls for a trophy to be given to that Faculty taking the most active part in Athletics. Points will be awarded for entries in individual sports, in team sports, and for participation in an Interfaculty League game. Bonus points will be added for wins, championship squads, and runners-up.

A penalty, worth six games, for defaulting a game, is also included in the plan. According to the tentative point summary drawn up by the Intramural office, a team defaulting a game would be penalized 30 points, six times the 5 points received for participation.

Many other colleges have had a point scoring system for many years, and the plan drawn up by Intramural Director Howie Ryan is based on the experience of other Universities, notably the University of Toronto which has one of the best Intramural Sports' setups in the country. Their Interfaculty football games draw more of a crowd than a McGill Intermediate tilt.

Approval of this plan at McGill awaits the final decision of the Intramural Athletics Board.

TOUCH FOOTBALL

The touch football experiment has been a success. Over 200 students took part in the thirty odd games that made up the regular schedule. As the Interfaculty League goes into the semi-final games tomorrow, the total participation should reach nearly one thousand. This brings the sport in to the most popular at McGill class, along with basketball and floor hockey and definitely assuring it a place on next year's Intramural schedule.

Interest shown among the non-participating student body has also been high. That as large a crowd as possible might see the final, it has been arranged that the last quarter of the last game of the series should be played at half time at next Saturday's McGill-Western game.

Lack of accommodation has made it necessary for the games in the Interfaculty Touch Football League to be played on the Stadium's Upper and Middle Fields. All these are very much out of the way for many of the students on the Campus.

Beyond the Phys. Eds. Meds. and Dents, it is rather difficult for other faculties to support their squads. One of the improvements hoped for in next season's setup is the moving of many games to the Lower campus. The large field was used for football some time ago, and has recently been reserved. It is hoped that permission can be obtained to play part of the schedule here where Artsmen and Engineers can get out to support their squads.

Lineup Change Planned For Water Polo Tilt

Aiming to shake the Water Polo Team out of its losing ways, Coach Don Rose has announced the starting line-up for tonight's game against Sir George Williams. The line-up will feature a combination of new faces and players switched from one position to the other.

Hal "One Way" Corrigan has been switched from right forward position to right defence and will join the veteran Joe Dickstein for rearguard duty. The boys will be fronted by newcomer Herach Bernstein at half, while Jim Ross will centre MacDonald and Skip Onesti on the forward division. John Balou will man the cords behind this new edition of the team.

Coach Rose also announced that there will be an exhibition game against the powerful M.A.A.A. team this Monday, November 14 at the M.A.A.A. This means that the coach will be able to give the fans a preview of the Senior Intercollegiate League team, that is, the forward division of Jerry Cooper, Don Walter, Skip Onesti and Jim Ross will swing into action.

Coach Rose also announced that while in Toronto for the Football game, he viewed a Water polo practice conducted by the Varsity (Continued on Page 4.)

Rugger Team Drops 8-0 Game to Varsity

By TIM CREERY

In a game more closely contested than the score would indicate, the McGill rugger team lost 8-0 to Varsity in Toronto last Saturday. The match was the second in the intercollegiate series with U. of T. McGill, however, is still in the running for the MacTier cup and plays its third game in that series next Saturday against the Toronto Wanderers in Montreal.

The Blues took the lead early in the game when their Captain, Don Glen, successfully converted a penalty kick close to the McGill line. Following the kick, the Redmen took the ball into the Toronto end only to have it brought back again by the Blues. During the first half, the Red forwards had a edge in the play in the loose, usually gaining possession in the lineouts, but losing the ball in the set scrums. This meant that whenever a McGill forward drive or a three-quarter play would get moving from the lineouts it would usually end in a scrum from which the Blues would get the ball and regain their lost ground. Don Glen's kicking sent the McGills back to centre field and into their own end many times after a drive into Toronto territory.

The tackling on both sides was good, while members of the Red fifteen stopped several Toronto drives by falling on the ball.

The first ten minutes of the second half saw no spectacular plays on either side, with the play moving back and forth in centre field. McGill was getting the ball more often than before from the set scrums, but did not get off to any long runs. Then the Blues, in a skillful forward passing play, took the ball through the McGill defences and over the line for a try by Sam Toy. Don Glen successfully converted to make the score 8-0 for U. of T. After further back and forth play in centre field, McGill kept the ball in the Toronto end for the last fifteen minutes of the game. Two chances to score by penalty kicks were missed during this time, and both forward drives and three-quarter runs were broken up by the Blues. Several times it looked as though the Redmen would take the ball over for a try, but each time they were pushed back by kicks or forward rushes. The game ended with no score for McGill and a total of eight points for Toronto.

Although they were beaten, the McGill fifteen played their best game of the season. The three-line plays were the best to date with Alistair Ramsay accomplishing some spectacular runs, and Dave Floyer breaking through for several games. Though weak in the set scrums (partly due to the fact that they were outwighed) the forwards played a hard, telling game in the loose. It is very hard to single out specific forwards to mention, but George Kent did outstanding work in the lineouts, and John Price provided one of the game's most exciting moments by making a run from centre field to the Blues' 15 yard line. The McGill rugger team could be a winning team if the players practiced more at working together and co-ordinating their efforts.

It is hoped that the practices at 4.30 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week will be well attended, so that serious faults may be remedied before the game against Harvard on Friday and the Wanderers on Saturday.

The dog-days are with us again, and the Laurentians are settling down for a long winter's sleep. The M.O.C. house is resting peacefully in anticipation of Christmas holidays filled with snow, and only a faithful band of trail clearers weekly breaks its slumber. November may be a wet and chilly month, but nothing seems to discourage people from staying overnight at M.O.C. on the week-ends, and hiking around the countryside. Someone always organizes a trip on Sunday, and heads off to the backwoods with enough provisions for a week's stay. Last Sunday we saw a large buck near Ogilvy's Lake and counted about 20 armed hunters in the next few hours, who were out looking for him.

Getting back to news of the moment, the most important social event of the year at McGill occurs in 2 1/2 weeks, Nov. 28, when M.O.C. present their world famous Hayseed Hop. This earth-shaking event will feature a six-piece orchestra, and a special barn dance ensemble. The evening will be made up of half modern, and half barn dancing. The Hayseed Hop is noted for its wild and wonderful costumes with a barnyard motif dominant,

Interfac Aqua Meet Nov. 10

The '49 Interfaculty Swimming Meet will be held on Thursday, November 10, at 5.15 p.m. at the Canadian Legion Pool, 1191 Mountain street. No pre-meet entry forms are necessary. Just come down and swim.

Last year's meet was a one-sided one for the Arts and Science Faculty. Led by Adin Merrow, Peter Mingle and Irwin Kopin, the Artsmen set seven new records for the contest.

The meet was a very fruitful one for Coach Vic Curran. The McGill swimming mentor was able to feel the powerful senior squad because of the talents produced by the meet.

Boys like Peter Mingle, Adin Merrow, Irwin Kopin, Greg. Titus and Graham Rainbow swam for the first time at McGill in the Interfaculty Meet. This year as in the past the Intramural fray is expected to produce some new swimming talent for the squad.

Some of the boys who are expected to enter and show their wares are E. Jones, J. Shurman, A. Shuster, K. Drummond, T. Johnson, P. Small, and G. Sperling. Small is a back stroker; Sperling a flying breast stroker, while the others are free-stylers.

Several of the records set in last year's meet may be exceeded by this year's novice crew. The 200 yards breast stroke mark 2:52 set by Kopin may be broken by Sperling, and the 100 yard back stroke mark 1:10 may fall to Pete Small. Most of the free-style talent is unheralded, but new records would not be too great a surprise.

Coach Curran expects a large turn-out for this year's event. His team is in need of strengthening this season. They face a very difficult schedule of strong States opposition, including Lasalle of Philadelphia, perennial challenger for top state swim honors.

Allwetts Not Wet in 10-0 Win Over Med

By FRED GOTTHEIL

The engineering Allwetts were really all wet after their 10-0 victory over the Med 4 squad in a play-off touch football tilt played yesterday afternoon at the Middle field.

Although it was actually a touch-football game it appeared to the few bystanders as a water polo match. The ball field was a mixture of mud and water and affected the play to such an extent that it hampered effective kicking and passing.

John Roe of Med 4 kicked off the game-opening ball but soon found himself saturated with mud, lying on the forty yard line. The fellows couldn't get their feet on the ground without sliding around. Finally in the latter part of the first quarter, after heavy and continuous pressure, George Stevens of the Allwetts carried the ball across the Med line for the first touchdown giving the Allwetts a 5-0 lead.

In the second quarter the teams resorted to arial attacks and end runs but both methods failed to further the score. The Meds 4 had their chance to score when they were on the Allwetts 10 yard line but lost the ball on downs. With only three minutes left in the third quarter, George Stevens, on the Med 4 twenty yard line, threw a long forward pass to Jeff Taylor who carried the ball across the line to give the Engineers a 10-0 lead.

In the other game played yesterday the Med 1 set back the Grad squad by a 1-0 score. The field was in poor condition and spoiled many of the teams' plays. Both teams were evenly matched and it was one break in the game that won it for the Medics. Loft kicked the ball behind the Grad line which gave the Meds one point and the victory.

Both Med teams have been very successful in their league games so far. With favourable weather conditions and a dry field a close battle is in the offing. The winners of this game will oppose the Allwetts in the semi-final series, to be played on Nov. 9th at 1.00 p.m. The Championship game will be played at a later date, to be announced in the Sports Menu of the Daily.

Blues. Apparently, the Torontonians are practising three and four times a week, and highly impressed Coach Rose, which means added practices for the Merman.

Sir George haven't been too successful in their C.A.P.A. games so far. They dropped their first game to the league leadering M.A.A.A. team 7-3 and blanked to the Y.M.C.A. 8-0. The coach will have Walt Tilden and Jim Cuttle along as subs and plans on using them extensively.

is unlimited particularly in the bush country, the St. Lawrence, and the West.

Canada's need for more cultural national expression, more understanding of itself, its prejudices, the realization that the old order has changed and that it can no longer be narrow minded or provincial were stressed by the speaker.

New Learning—P. 1

The speaker referred to the complete reversal of policy by the Dutch in the Far East, stating that this had been a major victory for

Wavell Speaks At Macdonald

Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que., Nov. 7.—Field Marshall Earl Wavell will address Macdonald College students and staff here on Nov. 23 when memorials to those who gave their lives in 1914-18 will be rededicated.

At present Lord Wavell is visiting Canada as the guest of the Black Watch (R.H.R.) of Canada. He is colonel-in-chief of all Black Watch regiments throughout the Commonwealth.

Lord Wavell, now chief constable of the Tower of London, was commander-in-chief of British forces in North Africa, where his first major victory was at Sidi Barani in the second year of the war. He commanded the ill-fated expedition to Greece and the subsequent campaigns in Crete and North Africa, in the early part of the Second World War, and later took command of British Forces in India, before he was appointed Viceroy of that country.

the United Nations. Victories of the Communists in China and the strength of public opinion had forced the Dutch to abandon their aggressive methods and seek a peaceful solution to the deadlock.

Mr. Grantham referred to a quotation of Prime Minister Hatta of the new republic of East Indonesia recently, who said "that the new government must stand or fall by its ability to lift some of the burdens of poverty from the people and bring them a better standard of life."

60 YEARS OF ACCOMPLISHMENT

1889 1949

In place of the old wooden tub, wash-board and wringer the modern washing machine and the commercial laundry have come to the assistance of the housewife of today. "Monel," an alloy composed of 2/3 Nickel and 1/3 Copper, is today in general use for washing machine tubs, and for washers and other equipment in modern laundries. Being rust-proof and corrosion resistant, it eliminates trouble from stains and verdigris. Its hard, glass-smooth surface removes all danger of injury even to the most delicate fabrics. Because it is strong and tough as steel, "Monel" equipment is unusually durable.

Canadian Nickel sold Abroad brings in U.S. Dollars

Since more than ninety per cent of the Nickel produced in Canada is sold to the United States and other countries, it brings a constant flow of dollars back to Canada. In fact, Canada's Nickel industry is one of our chief sources of U.S. dollars so essential at the present time to maintain our foreign trade and make available products not produced in this country.

These dollars help pay the wages of the 14,000 Nickel employees, and help provide the dollars which make it possible to pay millions in freight to Canadian railways, to buy timber, steel, coal, machinery and supplies amounting to many millions each year.

These millions, flowing into all industries through the length and breadth of Canada, help create jobs for Canadians.
